- In preparing models for and organising collaborations in connection with innovation in and between businesses and with users and other relevant actors
- In taking advantage of internal and external actors and resources in innovation processes

Overall content

The course will work with theories about innovation processes that take place in and between businesses and organisations and in collaboration with other actors, including users, and it will discuss how innovation interacts with value creation in the business. It will also focus on what role management plays in promoting and planning innovation and entrepreneurship in businesses.

The course will also work with providing knowledge and understanding of how innovation is planned and carried out in a societal context and how the surrounding society impacts innovation in businesses and entrepreneurship. The significance of the institutional framework and the societal conditions for innovation will be analysed in order to understand a business's value creation.

Additionally, the students will be introduced to tools that can be used in innovation activities. These, together with the theories on innovation that they are introduced to, will allow the students to plan, complete and analyse an innovation process during the course involving both internal and external actors.

Teaching and working methods

There will be a number of seminars lasting 2-4 hours. The teaching will be a combination of lectures, small exercises and workshops. As a whole, these will form a coherent process-oriented course structure wherein the students will form groups and plan and complete part of an innovation process.

The lectures and the small exercises will aim to discuss innovation theory and practice and prepare the students for the workshop activities.

During the workshops, the students will work with an innovation process related to the development of a product or service identified by the students themselves. For example, the workshops may include activities related to idea generation methods, user involvement methods, business model innovation, the building of networks, innovation pitches, etc.

Based on the course's literature, lectures and workshops, the students must describe, analyse and reflect on their innovation process in their exam paper. It is a prerequisite for being able to write the exam paper that the students are actively participating in the various workshops
